Dear Carrollton Community,

While there are some signs indicating that the rate of COVID-19 infections may be decreasing, we understand that some have already suffered a significant economic impact. With this in mind, we write to announce that Carrollton is establishing a COVID-19 Emergency Relief Fund to help our enrolled families meet urgent financial needs.

As we teach our students every day, we are called to be courageous, compassionate and faith-filled leaders in service to others. The COVID-19 pandemic has brought not only health concerns, but also economic uncertainty and hardship to families within our community. To ensure we live our mission set forth in the Goals and Criteria, Carrollton is committed to helping those members of our community who need emergency support during these trying times.

If your family is in a situation where your ability to make tuition payments has been significantly impacted by the pandemic, please reach out to Tom Cheleotis at tcheleotis@carrollton.org or Ana Roye at aroye@carrollton.org. Carrollton does have some flexibility in rescheduling tuition payments for the remainder of the year. Should you have other emergency needs, please reach out to me at okalkus@carrollton.org.

If you are fortunate enough to be in a position to offer support, please join us in making a tax-deductible donation to the Carrollton COVID-19 Emergency Relief Fund at this link.

In addition to this fund, please be assured that Carrollton plans on increasing our financial aid budget for the 2020-21 academic year, while remaining committed to supporting our employees during this challenging time. We also continue to support our community through our community partners.

The strength and generosity of the Carrollton community is never more evident than during challenging times. May we stay in one another’s hearts as we walk together through these difficult times. Let us pray for all who are sick and in need of God’s healing love, and especially for the members of our Carrollton community who are essential workers on the front lines to combat this pandemic. By continuing to care for one another, the Carrollton community remains united as we spend our weeks apart.

With gratitude and prayers for your health and safety,
